To Love God Unconditionally is to Love humanity unconditionally!
To love humanity unconditionally is Humanism, not Atheism, and therein lies the common ground of all beliefs we ever believed.
LOVE IS THE ANSWER!

Depending on how this book is perceived and received as well as my own writing ability development, I will attempt to write my story in more detail since my life experience does seem to be a picture book example of psychology 101, in action, but for the overuse and misuse of pharmaceutical drugs, supplements and food. Add in insufficient financial resources spent on therapy that only well trained human counsellors can give. No building can ever give me an empathetic, understanding hug no matter how well designed the building is nor can a hug ever feel totally sincere when I am handed a bill to pay, almost at the same time. Having insurance cover all our ills is also not the answer.

And therein lies another quandary: “How do we make a living in our current socio-political-economic system, without someone like me falling through its cracks, not enough to kill me but also not enough to make me want to stay but for duty to a life force we call love?”

The image on the next page will be the cover of the next book, once I have had a good rest from writing, a process I definitely do not like bordering on pure hatred, aggravates my BiPolar and is about the worst thing I can do in terms of repairing my body from my career in computing and age gracefully at the same time. The script of the text may change, depending on what software I choose to write the fuller story. Please note too that the copyright will be changed to copy left when there is an actual book to go with the cover.

First, however, I will take a break to get back to taking care of me and will then try to write my fuller story so that it comes out in the first part of the 2020s assuming we have not yet blown the earth into little bits and have begun to take care of our planet and each other, better. In other words, INSHALAH, “God” willing, our common caveat. Humanity will evolve in spirit only when we learn to understand and practice TRUE LOVE and FORGIVENESS to become a kinder, gentler, more empathetic people as survivors, no longer victims nor abusers from our combined past: a balancing act of holding on and then letting go. Easy? No!
